

July 18, 2011

Dear Friends and Supporters,

Lives are being transformed daily by the ministry of Living Hope International, and not without the help of the dedicated missionaries who are an asset to the expansion and development of this organization. Living Hope is composed of many areas that make it unique. We work to rescue and rehabilitate the at-risk children of Mexico with Esperanza Viva Youth Homes, provide quality education to the children through our on-site Integral Education Center K-12 school, reach out to families in the community through Nations Church, and prepare leaders through La Viña Ministry Training Center.

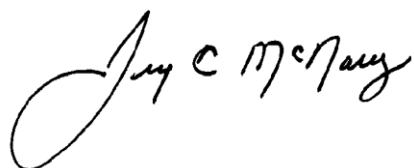

The majority of our missionaries are serving in several areas at once, including caring for the children, construction, administration, finances, children and youth ministries, communications, ministry training, teaching, and counseling, among many others. They serve under pressures that are not common even on the average mission field. They submit to strict guidelines, which we adhere to in order to maintain transparency and a constant excellent example for the children.

Ryan and Molly Nielsen have been with us for nine years and have proven that they are dedicated to the ministry that we have worked together to build and maintain. Their work with construction, development, and training is invaluable to this ministry, and they have proven that they are capable and committed to the growth and development of these areas. They also have a wonderful and positive influence on the children of Esperanza Viva, and we know them to be responsible and genuinely interested in their lives.

Our missionaries are sacrificially dedicated to the work that they are assigned, and they often work well over the average eight-hour work day. After 25 years of working as a missionary, working with missionaries, and training missionaries, I say with confidence and experience that the Niensens, who have committed their lives to serving with Living Hope International, are well worth supporting.

Currently, Ryan and Molly do not receive the full funding support that we recommend for our missionaries, and we are looking for people who are as committed to their missions work as they are. Our missionaries are wholly dependent on the personal support that they receive. I ask you to prayerfully consider supporting or increasing your support of the Nielsen family.

Sincerely,

Jerry McNally
Director, Living Hope International

Living Hope International: Touching Lives... transforming tomorrow